

Pension scheme for disability pensioners

Half of all disability pensioners pay voluntary SUPP contributions

SUPP is a voluntary pension scheme, giving disability pensioners an attractive opportunity to save for lifelong pension. Where a disability pensioner in 2020 contributed DKK 181 per month to SUPP, the state contributed an additional DKK 362. The state therefore contributes double that of the disability pensioner.

Around half of all disability pensioners pay SUPP contributions

SUPP has been a part of ATP since 2013. SUPP contributions are managed together with ATP contributions. SUPP members accrue ongoing guaranteed lifelong pension in the same way as ATP members. SUPP members also contribute to the bonus potential in the same manner and are included in ATP's bonus policy.

Payments and contributions

Total payments to current old-age pension benefits from SUPP in 2020 were DKKm 87. Pensions paid to SUPP members in was DKK 2,400 for the year on average. For SUPP members retiring at age 66 in 2020, the average annual pension was DKK 3,500. Lump-sum payouts totalled DKKm 0.3.

If a SUPP member dies before retirement age, the estate will receive an amount corresponding to 50 per cent of the contributions paid, including interest. This amount will be gradually scaled down after retirement age. In 2020, DKKm 34 was disbursed from SUPP on the death of SUPP members – an average amount of DKK 19,500 per deceased person. Survivor benefit payments amount to 8 per cent of contributions on average.

In 2020, the full annual SUPP contribution was DKK 6,516, and SUPP members paid total contributions of DKKm 611. The SUPP contribution is adjusted annually by the rate adjustment percentage, thus amounting to DKK 6,660 in 2021.
